WU PUSHING GRAFT HUNT, WANTS TUNG KEPT ON JOB

Demands Peking Government Support For Minister

STRONG FOR KAO

New Railway Chief Has Had French Training

BY JOSEF W. HALL
(Staff Correspondent of the China Press)

Paotingfu, May 17.—The graft investigation in Peking has not lapsed owing to the Fengtien war. It has on the contrary been accelerated through Wu Pei-fu's victory. One of the principal issues of the present moment—an issue which involves President Hsu's retention of his honorific position—is Wu Pei-fu's demand that Minister of Justice Tung Kang be given the open support of the Peking Government, which the President has hitherto withheld and more than that, be placed in an official position which will give him even greater opportunities and authority for house-cleaning.

Those who believe Wu Pei-fu is adopting a laissez-faire attitude toward political matters, will be enlightened to know that he has prevented his own candidate for premier, Wang Shih-chen, from assuming office until the personnel of Ministries of Finance and Communication are chosen. General Wu insists upon the placing of Tung Kang, the man who took his duties as investigator of loans so seriously that he upset the government which appointed him and drove the Minister of Finance into hiding.

Wu and Tung have never met. Either one disclaims any personal or political relations with the other—in fact before the recent conflict Tung was very much embarrassed by Wu's sudden endorsement of his policy which he feared would lay him open to the charge of partisanship. His fearless prosecution of official corruption has won for him the whole confidence of General Wu Pei-fu. Tung Kang may not know anything about the technicalities of finance," said Wu Pei-fu, discussing him recently, "but I believe he does know the difference between graft and honesty which is something that no finance minister of recent years seems to have comprehended. I believe that he can procure able young assistants to carry out the technical part of his duties."

It is understood here that acceptance of the portfolio of Finance by Tung Kang would spell the downfall of old President Hsu inasmuch as intimations have been received from Tung that further investigation of the Ministry of Finance will bring to light deals throwing reflection on the official integrity of the old President himself. General Wu yesterday sent, for the second time, representatives to urge Tung Kang to accept office on the basis of duty to his country.

The appointment of Kao Enhung as Minister of Communications, although not involving such serious political issues, is none the less an important step in General Wu's policy.

Kao is a young protege of General Wu who will apply his French training to the carrying out of the policies dear to the heart of General Wu. He has had railway and telegraph experience in Shanghai and Hankow. He is a new man, entirely without connection with old Peking officialdom. Wu expects to give the Ministry of Communications special attention for a time. He has a program for extension of railways and development of river traffic and for the administration of foreign loans in connection therewith which he desires to put into immediate enforcement.

BIG HOUSE GREETS OPENING PROGRAM IN AID OF BLIND

A crowded house greeted the performance at the Olympic Theater last evening given in aid of the Institution for the Chinese Blind. The program was well balanced and entertaining throughout and the big audience evinced much pleasure over the rendition of each of the items.

Among the numbers deserving of special mention perhaps there should come first of all the efforts of the students of the school. In their songs and their gymnastic stunts the blind performers were excellent. The lyric numbers were rendered with remarkable clarity and tone and the athletic feats, particularly the pyramid building, were in all respects worthy of the hearty applause which they brought forth.

The reading given by Mrs. Snodgrass was received with acclaim and Mrs. Isherwood's singing evoked enthusiastic encore calls. The St. John's University Orchestra and the American School Glee Club furnished other pleasing numbers, while the girls of the McTyeire School executed a most delightful Maypole dance.

Mr. Ma, of the Public School for Chinese, gave a recitation of the happy sort and Mr. Reginald Kay's conjuring stunts were both mystifying and entrancing.

The performance is to be repeated this afternoon at the Olympic at 2:30 o'clock and it is to be hoped that another full house will be on hand to appreciate the program and to aid the work of this worthy institution.

COLUMBIA CLUB PURCHASES NEW SITE FOR HOME

Fifty Mow Plot Secured For Building On Siccawei Road

Fifty mow of land have been purchased by the Columbia Country Club for their new home in the French Concession, it was learned yesterday. The plot is located at the corner of Route Pere Robert and French Siccawei Road and was bought for the club by the China Realty Company at a purchase price of Tls. 110,000, raised by the sale of debentures to club members.

The grounds just acquired by the Columbia Country Club will be the most extensive club grounds in the city with the single exception of the Hungjao Golf Club property. The newly acquired premises comprise some ten acres.

It is announced that work on the new club building will be begun in the near future and will be completed by the first of June, 1923, when the Club's lease expires on its present property on Route Doumer.

Double Track For Shanghai-Nanking Railway Suggested

Suggestions have been made for the construction of a double track for the Shanghai-Nanking Railway on account of the congestion of traffic. The administration is seriously considering the matter and will present a concrete plan to the Ministry of Communications shortly, it is understood.

Moving Picture Man Here To Survey Field

Mr. George Mooser, former Shanghai man and well-known throughout the East, who has been in the States for the past few years producing plays for the legitimate and moving picture rostrum, has arrived in Shanghai in the interests of the United Artists Corporation. The combination which Mr. Mooser represents as managing director for the Far East, includes such artists as Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin and the famous American director-producer D. W. Griffith.

Mr. Mooser came to Tokio several weeks ago to establish offices and will make a complete survey of the Orient. It is expected that he will also go to India to open offices there for the corporation. In connection with his visit here it is interesting to note that the film "Way Down East," brought out by Griffith, is being pirated to this country by unauthorised agents and Mr. Mooser hopes to forestall their efforts to plant the illegitimate picture in these parts. He is stopping at the Astor House during his stay here.

Famine Relief Committee Outlines Plan To Check Hwai River Valley Floods

Project To Be Carried Out By New Conservancy Board Will Mean Largely Increased Crops And Saving Of Many Lives Each Year

Measures to carry into effect the general scheme of conservation in the Hwai River valley and prevent the almost yearly famines through the great area of the Hwai Valley were definitely outlined at the recent meeting of the Chinese Foreign Famine Relief Committee which is to give its full support to the newly organised Hwai Valley Conservancy Board in carrying out the work.

Comprehensive data is being obtained on all aspects of past flood conditions from survey records of local conservancy bodies in north Anhwei and north Kiangsu and steps are being taken to ask Dr. J. R. Freeman, an engineer of international reputation, to come to China and take charge of the active work.

ANNUAL FLOODS

Flood in the Hwai Valley and surrounding country is an almost annual occurence and, unfortunately, takes place just before the Autumn harvest thus making conditions more severe. In addition to the large loss of revenue in taxes, there is a much larger loss in the almost annual death-roll, with the destruction of property and crops.

Official and charitable associations have been undertaking relief from year to year, but it is generally realised that these constant appeals will bring but little response in the years to come.

Kiangsu and Anhwei are great rice-producing provinces, but the floods in the Hwai Valley (Kiangpei and Wanpei) reduce this productiveness to the extent of one half, an enormous loss of foodstuffs. This increasingly brings in its train great poverty, and drives people to brigandage, which is rife along the Yangtsze River, and generally disturbs the peace of mid-China.

The province of Honan normally produces large supplies of wheat, sufficient for export to Chihli and adjoining provinces, but the effect of the overflow of the Hwai River, while not so serious as in Anhwei and Kiangsu, affects the cost of living in Honan, Chihli and adjacent provinces, and causes much lawlessness.

FLOODS ARE CAUSE

The overflow of the Hwai river and its tributaries is the fundamental cause of these ever recurring floods and famine in the provinces named.

If the conservancy work is successful not only will tens of millions of mow of land be reclaimed, but land already under cultivation will be made productive and the food supply will be enormously increased, which will bring increased revenue to the provinces and great prosperity to the people, while at the same time making for peace and industrial progress, together with greatly increased trade.

FAMINE WORKERS OUTLINE PLAN TO AID RICKSHA MEN

Proposal Advanced To Raise Fund Of $70,000 For Shanghai Coolies

To give a helping hand to the lowly and long-suffering ricsha boy of Shanghai is the purpose of a new and probably popular enterprise of charitable nature which has been undertaken by the Chinese Foreign Famine Relief Committee.

In launching the project the Committee sets forth the belief that inasmuch as Shanghai has done so much for sufferers in Northern and Middle China it is deemed appropriate to undertake to give some help to Shanghai's most needy class, the ricsha coolies.

The proposal put forward by the committee contemplates the raising of a fund of $70,000 to be used in alleviating the lot of the ricsha pullers. Only an outline of what this aid may consist of has been given but measures may be taken to aid ricsha men in obtaining possession of their own ricshas and some plan may be worked out under which old workers who become unfit for further service may be enabled to acquire small plots of land.

The Committee has indicated its willingness to contribute the sum of $20,000 toward the fund and the belief is expressed that a grant of $20,000 may be obtained from the Shanghai Municipal Council, $10,000 from the French Municipal Council and $20,000 from the general public.

"State" Steamers To Be Renamed

United States Shipping Board vessels visiting this port will be renamed after Presidents of the United States in the near future, according to word received in Shanghai yesterday.

The Pine Tree State, which was originally named after the state of Maine, will become the President Grant. The Wenatchee, named after a county in Washington which made an enviable record during the Liberty Loan drives, is to become the President Jefferson, and the Bay State (Massachusetts) will be renamed the President Madison.

President McKinley will be remembered through the renaming of the Keystone State (Pennsylvania), and the Silver State originally named after Nevada, will be called the President Jackson. New York's nickname, Empire State, will disappear when that vessel is renamed the President Cleveland, and the Golden State (California) will ply the seas hereafter as the President Taylor. The Hoosier State will become the President Lincoln.

Russian Actors Stop Play In Order To Honor Hoover

(Dalta News Agency)

Moscow, May 12.—According to the Foreign Press Service, a demonstration that was not on the bill took place recently in the New York theater where the Chauve-Souris, the famous "Bat Theater" from Moscow, has been enchanting thousands of Americans, when Mr. Balieff, master of the company, in the middle of the performance, called attention to the presence of Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce.

"To me and to most of us," said the speaker, "the name Herbert Hoover has hitherto been only a name, but it is a name that has stood for the salvation of 5,000,000 Russian children. To us Russians it is a name to be revered forever. I can conceive of no greater privilege than that we are now permitted to see him—the savior of Russia's little ones—in person."

Then on a signal from Mr. Balieff the Russian "Song of Welcome" was sung by the entire company, while the audience stood. Women of the company wept as they sang and hundreds in the audience were moved to tears. When the song ended the players took up their parts again.

Engineering Strike Outlook Is Worse

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 18.—"Contrary to expectations, the prospects of an early settlement of the engineering dispute have been seriously set back." This is the opening sentence of a statement made by the Employers Federation, which says that its new proposals go beyond the finding of the Court of Inquiry in the Unions' favor.

The Unions, other than the Amalgamated Engineering Union, have adjourned to consider the matter sectionally. They will again confer with the employers on May 20.

Fire Chief Goes On Leave

CHIEF OFFICER M. W. PETT
(This picture was taken on the twenty-fifth anniversary of the chief's initiation into the professio n).

Chief Officer Pett Goes Home On Furlough Today

Fires in Shanghai for the ensuing eight months or so will be minus a familiar figure. Chief Officer M. W. Pett departs today on long leave after nine and a half years of practically continuous work as head of the city's firefighting forces. His furlough will be spent in almost as strenuous style as he is accustomed to while on the job in Shanghai, for during the trip he will visit most of the larger cities of America and his own homeland with a view to inspection of the firefighting organisations and equipments in vogue there.

During the past fortnight the Chief, who has brought the Shanghai department up to a pitch of efficiency which is probably unequalled anywhere in the Far East, has been subjected to more calls than ordinarily comes to him in the ordinary course of his schedule here, for his presence has been demanded at a series of functions arranged by members of the department and others desirous of giving expression to the appreciation in which his work is held. And when he boards the Empress of Asia today, bound for Canada, the States and England, he will doubtless breathe a sigh of relief and look forward to the trip and backward to the good old times when there were only seven fires a week-end with an equal amount of yearning.

WILL STUDY CONDITIONS

The popular Chief Officer, who is accompanied by his family, will make a comprehensive survey of firefighting conditions in North America and England during his trip. His inspection will include the following cities on the American continent: Vancouver, Winnipeg, Chicago, St. Paul, Buffalo, Toronto, Elmira, N.Y.—where the factory districts will receive his particular attention—Boston, New York and other cities on the East coast. Chief Officer Pett is a member of the American Fire Protection Association.

FOREFATHERS FIGHTERS

Chief Officer Pett has just completed a quarter of a century of service as an active firefighter, the latter years of which period have been devoted to the building up of two fire departments in the Far East to points of highest efficiency.

The Chief of the Shanghai brigade comes of a very old and noted firefighting stock. In earlier days their fighting was not limited to the flames, for his forefathers, in the 16th century, were among the builders of the famous "Hearts of Oak" ships which stood the British navy in such valiant stead. Phineas Pett helped to construct the dreadnaught of those early days known as the "Royal Sovereign" and turned his firefighting bent to the evolving of a scheme for the extinguishing of fires on ships at sea. Later Sir Peter Pett, a First Commissioner for the Navy, built a yacht for Charles II, and equipped it with a special fire extinguishing device.

Chief Officer Pett's great-grandfather was a member of one of the first bona fide fire brigades in England, the Sevenoaks Brigade in 1826. His grandfather was one of the founders of the Kent Volunteer Fire Association, one of the forerunners of the present day regulated departments, and his father, Mr. W. Pett, is today Chief Offcer of the Exeter Fire Brigade in Devon, which position he has held for more than 35 years.

The Shanghai Chief's career as a firefighter began at an early age. As a matter of fact he might almost literally be said to have been born to the profession, for he first saw the light of day in the fire station at Sevenoaks, Kent. Actual service began with him at the age of 10 when he was equipped with a fireman's cap and with the mallet and

FURNITURE MEN'S STRIKE SETTLED; RESUME TODAY

Masters Grant Five Cent Increase After Exciting Meeting Yesterday

The strike of the furniture makers was settled late yesterday after an exciting meeting at 24 Newchang Road in the afternoon. The masters offered an increase of five cents a day beginning the day following the Dragon Boat Festival and the workers finally agreed to accept after amalgamating their two unions into one with headquarters at 24 Newchwang Road. The strikers will resume their work this morning.

The settlement yesterday ends one of the most serious disputes between masters and craftsmen which has occurred in recent years. The demands for an increase by the laborers was made last Saturday when a strike was proclaimed by a union in Ni Ping Lee, Paoshan Road. The other union at Newchwang Road immediately followed, asking for 25 cents daily increase.

Many meetings followed but negotiations were of no avail. The strikers stood firm. Yesterday things looked very black for the masters. When representatives were elected by the workers to interview the masters, a mob of strikers jammed the thoroughfare on Newchwang and Kweichow Roads, The police stood by, but no violence resulted.

After violent exchanges of opinion the employers compromised, giving the five cent increase. A circular was distributed among the strikers last night, calling off the strike.

CHIHLI ARMY MOBILISING FOR RENEWAL OF OFFENSIVE

Gen. Feng's Christian Soldiers Deploy To West

MINE AREA SAFE

Two Important Centers Occupied By Wu's Men

BY JOSEF W. HALL
Staff Correspondent the China Press

Paotingfu, May 19.—It is officially reported that Kuyeh and Kaiping were occupied by the Chihli forces yesterday, with little resistance. The naval vessels waiting north of Shanhaikwan have been ordered not to interfere with Chang Tso-lin's retreat.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 19.—Ten Fengtien troop-trains passed Chinwangtao yesterday on their way north. The same telegram says that General Chang Tso-lin is apparently withdrawing his first line from Kaiping to Kuyeh, his second from Kuyeh to Changli and his third from Changli to an unknown point to the north, but in view of reports that General Wu Pei-fu is sending General Feng Yu-hsiang's Christian soldiers through the hills to the west of the Fengtien forces and of the passage of numerous Chihli troops towards the north along the Peking-Mukden Railway it is quite possible that General Chang Tso-lin is starting a general retirement. At any rate, the latest movements remove the threat of hostilities in the Kaiping mining area, which had caused considerable anxiety.

Peking, May 19.—It is semi-officially stated that General Wang Shih-chen has received telegrams urging him to accept the Premiership from Generals Tsao Kun, Wu Pei-fu, Tien Chung-yu, Li Hou-chi, Liu Chen-hua, Hsiao Yao-nan, Lu Hung-tao, Chih Hsien-yuan, Feng Yu-hsiang and Chan Kuang-yuan.

General Feng Yu-hsiang recommends the appointment of General Chin Yun-ao as Associate Director of Military Affairs of Honan, vice General Pao Teh-chuan, deceased.

The situation in the south is reported to be developing slowly. General Li Lieh-chen is progressing very slowly in the direction of Tayuhsien in south-western Kiangsi. General Chen Chiung-ming has withdrawn most of his troops to Wuchow, leaving Kwangsi practically at the mercy of bandits, who are very numerous. General Chen apparently desires to maintain order within the borders of Kwangtung while Dr. Sun Yat-sen follows his ambitions towards the north. There are persistent rumors of rapprochement between Generals Wu Pei-fu and Chen Chiung-ming.

In Yunnan, General Tang Chiyao's position does not yet appear secure. Some of his followers are reported to be wavering in their allegiance, while shortage of funds hampers reconstruction.

Peking, May 19.—The withdrawal of General Chang Tso-lin's censors at Peking has been followed by police censorship, which is more senseless than the former. Telegrams relating to General Chang's independence manifesto are entirely suppressed without the common courtesy of notifying the sender. This policy is merely antagonising the press.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, May 19.—A considerable number of Chihli reinforcements are still proceeding to the northeast.

The Fengtien forces have withdrawn from Kaiping and are withdrawing from Kuyeh to Luanchow without fighting.

Peking, May 18.—The rather dubious character of General Chang Tso-lin's manifesto of independence is explained by additional facts coming to light. It appears that the manifesto first reached the Tangshan representative of a foreign firm in the form of a Chinese telegram from Luanchow signed by General Chang Tso-lin.

The representative had the telegram translated and telegraphed it to his taipan at Tientsin where it was communicated to his Consul General for his information. The latter communicated it to his colleagues and he and they reported the matter to their respective Legations.

As the firm in question is not General Chang Tso-lin's agents and as the communication thus reached official quarters entirely through unofficial channels, the Legations did not take official cognisance of it, but the fact that General Chang Tso-lin's accredited agents at Harbin, Mukden and Newchwang have been given notice of General Chang Tso-lin's intention to retain the Customs and Postal revenues indicates that the manifesto came from General Chang Tso-lin.

If so he has left himself a retreat in the fact that he could easily repudiate the manifesto by stating that he did not authorise its dispatch and point out the absurdity of placing credence in a telegram which any unauthorised member of his staff might have sent, as well as the unlikelihood of his telegraphing to a foreign firm when he could have used the same medium for dispatch to the foreign Legations if he did not trust the Government telegraphs.

Furthermore, the original Chinese text was so confused and vague that Chinese scholars are not certain what it was really intended to mean and only by very free translation can sense be imparted to it in English.

General Wu Pei-fu continues to strengthen the Chihli forces on the North-Eastern front which are still considerably fewer that the Fengtien forces.

In a recent interview with a foreigner, General Chang Tso-lin said that he did not intend to attack the Chihli forces but would remain where he was and fight if attacked.

(Eastern News Agency)

Hankow, May 18.—According to the Chinese press here, some 4,000 soldiers formerly belonging to General Chao Chieh, who some time ago were defeated by the troops under General Feng Yu-hsiang in the district of Chengchow, have now effected communication with bandits and invaded the south-eastern part of Honan, looting several prefectures in that province. In consequence, the traffic between Kaifeng and Hsuchow has been entirely interrupted and the whole field of affairs in Honan is reported to have been thrown into confusion. According to another report, some 20,000 Honan soldiers, who have withdrawn from Kaifeng along with General Chao Ti, ex-Tuchun of Honan, are now striving to regain their ebbing power with General Chao Ti as their commander-in-chief. Anyhow, it is generally considered that the state of affairs in Honan can hardly be restored to a normal condition for the time being. In the meantime, rumor has it that the Honan troops have today made a counter-attack upon Chengchow, where the situation is growing more disturbed than ever, but it is not yet ascertained whether the rumor is true or not.

Powerful World Leaders At Genoa Economic Conference

PROBLEMS of bringing world trade and money exchange back to normalcy are being considered by powerful world leaders at the Genoa Economic Conference. Here is the first photograph of the notables in attendance to reach this country. Lloyd George, in a characteristic pose, dominates the group. At his left is Premier Facta, of Italy. Just behind him is Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, tallest in group. At the British Premier's right is Sir Robert Stevenson Horne, with Signor Schanzer, Italian Foreign Minister, beside him.

CHANG LOST HALF HIS MEN, 30,000 GUNS IN 3 DAYS

Wu's Victory, Measured By Cost Of Gains, Unparalleled

BY JOSEF W. HALL
(Staff Corespondent of The China Press)

Paotingtu, May 16.—Reliable statistics are always compiled slowly but figures now exist in regard to the material captured by Wu Pei-fu from Chang Tso-lin which may be given out as fairly accurate.

In three days the Fengtien fire breather left behind him, between Changsintien and Chunliengcheng, some 30,000 rifles, 130 field pieces, 300 machine guns, 3,000 horses, 1,000,000 rounds of rifle ammunition and 10,000 artillery and shrapnel shells. These are at least the approximate totals of the figures that have been turned in to General Wu Pei-fu by his commanders on the various sectors.

It is taken for granted that each rifle means a man and that therefore some 30,000 Fengtienites have been captured, scattered or incapacitated. Indeed the Fengtien army has probably suffered a much heavier loss than this in numbers inasmuch as many contingents have scattered taking their rifles with them. Army authorities here estimate the grand loss to the Fengtien ranks as something like 50,000 men, leaving them something like 40,000 men within the wall whom Chang Tso-lin is endeavoring to reorganise.

As to actual casualties, statistics are even more hazy, but it is evident that the Fengtien forces suffered, in killed and wounded, from three to five thousand men. The Chihli wounded have now been completely tabulated and total about half this number. On the Chihli side no officers of rank above that of major commanding a battalion were lost. On the Fengtien side, however, six brigade commanders and one division commander, Chow Fen, are definitely listed as "killed in action" or "dead of wounds received in action," while dead and wounded colonels and majors are listed by the score.

History probably does not record a victory greater from the standpoint of a maximum of damage done to the enemy's army with a minimum of loss to the victors. With the sacrifice of only one-twentieth of his men, Wu Pei-fu put out of commission more than half of his enemy's numbers and captured from one-half to three-fourths of his equipment, supplies and provisions.

War's Aftermath Disrupts Railways

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, May 16.—The disorganisation brought about in the Ministry of Communications by the removal of the chiefs of departments as well as a number of subordinate officials who have been a long time in the railroad service is beginning to have its effect upon the railroad situation. Aside from the Peking-Tientsin line the service is extremely irregular and there has been a bad mix up in locomotives and other equipment.

The congestion on both sides of Tientsin, toward Mukden and toward Pukow is becoming serious and may be extremely embarrassing to Wu Pei-fu at a time when he may desire to bring up reinforcements. Concern is expressed by the foreign locomotive engineers who made the sales of the machines now in use that the material, particularly the newly assembled locomotives, will be seriously injured by the improper treatment recently given.

Work in the Ministry of Communications is at a standsill with the exception of the Through Traffic Conference with Japan which is going on according to schedule with Mr. Shen Chi, the newly appointed director general of railroads taking Mr. Liu's place. Mr. Shen has been faced with an unusually serious problem and has thus far endeavored to keep his staff as little changed as possible.

There has been a note of optimism expressed due to the feeling that the worst period has been passed and that the new leaders may be able to work into their unaccustomed duties within a short time. On the other hand the prospect of a renewal of hostilities and the disorganisation of the roads by the military are making matters very difficult.

Vanderlip Skeptical About Conference

(China Press Service)

Washington, May 18.—Frank A. Vanderlip cabled the annual convention of the American Chamber of Commerce describing the Genoa conference as being more of a clinic than a conference, which revealed the variety, nature and extent of the diseases from which Europe is suffering.

However, Vanderlip stated, it has proved futile having performed no operation and administered no important dose.

Vanderlip said that most of the central banks in Europe were "in varying degrees of insolvency." He urged the United States to participate in the banking conference to be held in London soon but to keep the American Federal Reserve system "free from entanglements and commitments."

The Chamber passed a resolution urging American representation at the reparations conference without delay. A resolution was also passed that "our government promptly take its place with other nations of the world in the International Court of Justice."

President Harding told the American Chamber of Commerce annual convention that the American government "does not want American industry destroyed to build up commerce in other lands."

He added that "the United States does not wish to hold aloof but we must always be right at home before we can go abroad on great problems." He said that he doubted that there would have been a world war if the United States had had a merchant marine commensurate with its government. He concluded by saying: "I hope the day will never come when we must again resort to war."

(China Press Service)

Genoa, May 18.—The British spokesman announced that further advices from America indicate that it is unlikely that the United States will participate at the Hague conference at least until the scope of the meeting is better understood. The final plenary session will be held Friday morning.

Sun Now Planning Attack Via Kiangsi

(China Press Service)

Hongkong, May 18.—Negotiations are in progress between the Canton government and both northern factions to prevent Dr. Sun Yat-sen from attacking the North.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 16.—While Dr. Sun Yat-sen's "Punitive expedition" against the North has ceased to cause any anxiety in Peking, it seems to be creating a certain amount of disturbance in Kiangsi, where military preparations are in progress to resist invasion.

Foreign official advices indicate that the cold reception accorded them by the Hunanese led the Southern leaders to avoid that province in their projected march northward and to choose a route through Kiangsi instead.

General Li Lieh-chun was formerly a Tuchun of this province and the theory is advanced that an ambition to re-establish himself there had much to do with this change of plan. In any case, the present Tuchun, General Chen Kuang-yuan, has no wish to harbor the Southern force within his territory and, having called upon General Wu Pei-fu for assistance, is making ready to oppose its advance.

Nanchang has been placed under martial law, but is controlled by gendarmerie alone, all the troops having been despatched to points along the western and southern borders of the province, including Pingshinhsien, Lienhuahsien and Yungsinhsien, the 46th Division which was the last to leave the capital being sent to Kianfu.

Incidentally the departure of this division was accompanied by discovery of a plot hatched by its officers to loot the city. It was thwarted, however, and the usual rigorous measures taken against the plotters.

General Li Lieh-chun's army, distributed in three parallel columns, is said to be at last moving toward the Kiangsi border. Whether this means a move against the North itself seems doubtful. The opinion is expressed here, that General Li is more likely to make the domination of Kiangsi his goal for the present and to satisfy himself with that.

whistle used in calling up the volunteers. As fire messenger it was his duty to run round to the various residences of the volunteers with the call to duty. Shortly thereafter while at college he became a full-fledged fireman and when 17 was one of a team that represented Exeter and helped to win the National Trophy in the all-England competition.

While still in his teens, Chief Pett saw service in South Africa, as a volunteer in the Imperial Yeomanry, being among the first volunteers to leave for the front when the outbreak came. On his return to England he joined Messrs. Merryweather and Sons noted firm of fire engineers, to gain further knowledge of technical and engineering work in matters appertaining to fire. It was at this time that he received the appointment as head of the Singapore Fire Brigade. He was then only 25 years old, the youngest fire chief to assume fire fighting responsibility for a city of over a quarter of a million inhabitants.

RECREATES TWO BRIGADES

The Singapore department when Mr. Pett assumed charge was far from efficient and the city at the time was experiencing a terrifying epidemic of arson, but so complete was the new chief's reorganisation that within three years Singapore was entirely free from incendiarism and the fire department had gained the reputation of being, with that of Manila, the finest in the Far East.

Chief Officer Pett came to Shanghai toward the close of 1912, when the Municipal authorities decided that it was necessary to have a paid head for the volunteer brigade. The appointment was unique here and in the reorganisation of the local department which has been brought about within the past few years there were numerous difficulties to surmount, but after nearly ten years of conscientious, well-directed effort Mr. Pett may well congratulate himself on the fact that he is leaving to the new Deputy Chief Officer, one of the best, if not the very best trained fire department in the Far East.

A tense drama of city life, upper world, under world, riches, poverty, selfishness and Stunning Contrasts.

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realising this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense, and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered pheminol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefully and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove, and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair, and should then be carefully washed in warm water, and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talcum powder. (Advt.)

WELLINGTON KOO TALKS ON TOPICS VITAL TO CHINA

Minister To Britain Speaks Before National Affairs Conference

Questions of vital importance to China were touched upon yesterday, by Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, at a reception held in his honor by the Conference on National Affairs at the Chinese Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Chang Yi-ling, chairman of the conference, in introducing the speaker, remarked upon the difficult position Dr. Koo held as a Chinese diplomat, representing as he did a weak power. But the brilliant manner in which he had carried out his duties, the chairman said, was a source of great satisfaction to the nation.

After expressing his pleasure in being given an opportunity to get into contact with men representing genuine public opinion, Dr. Koo asserted that public opinion abroad regarding China might be divided into two classes. The first class involved those who concentrated their interest on European affairs and considered Chinese problems as quite secondary. The second class were those who paid much attention to China, holding her problems to be no longer local but world problems.

In analysing the attitude of the foreigner, Dr. Koo also found two classes, one believing that the political development of China has been slow and disappointing and the turmoil in the country is seriously effecting foreign interests. This class favors international control of China, for which a great deal of propaganda was spread in Europe and America just before the Washington Conference. The other class, which has generally made a study of the Chinese situation and is more or less sympathetic with the Chinese cause, maintains the above conclusion to be wrong, and contends that China is passing through a transitory stage and must in time set herself right, and that all foreign powers should adopt a non-interference policy toward the country—a policy which will allow China to work out its own salvation.

The sympathetic attitude of the United States towards China greatly facilitated China's efforts in inducing the other powers to adopt the second policy at Washington, Dr. Koo said. American public opinion did not favor international control and so the non-interference policy prevailed.

Minister Koo then went into detail in the discussion of how the difficult problems of Chinese tariff autonomy, disarmament, and the importation of arms, as well as Japan's requests for material supply were dealt with by the Chinese delegation and pointed out how each question came within the scope of foreign interference.

The powers did not expect China to do wonders at once, according to Dr. Koo. When he took leave of the delegates of the foreign powers at Washington, the general concensus of opinion was that while the foreign powers are adopting a non interference policy, China should at once disarm in order to reorganise her financial system and must remove all obstructions to international commerce, such as the likin system and faulty transportation facilities.

An informal discussion on the abolition of the likin followed Dr. Koo's address.

Last night, Dr. Koo was guest of honor at a dinner given by the local branch of the Flip Flap Fraternity, one of the most exclusive organisations among the American college educated Chinese.

The Overseas Chinese Association, 129 Range Road, will give a reception in honor of Minister and Madame Koo this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Students of Chi-Nan National Institute are to attend in a body.

Four Dead, Many Hurt In Ireland

Belfast, May 18.—Four are dead and several injured as a result of a wild night in the Marrow Bone district where police "cattled" a gang of gunmen. The fighting is continuing this morning.

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 17.—The second attempt of the Dail Eireann peace committee has proved abortive in consequence of disagreement on the question of the proportion of candidates at the election which has been proposed and agreed upon. The Republicans insisted on their existing proportion in the Dail.

In the course of a long discussion in the Dail today, Mr. de Valera offered to co-operate with the Provisional Government. Mr. Arthur Griffith accepted, provided that the Republicans would no further obstruct Irishmen in expressing their will. The debate was adjourned.

3,000 Sailors At Hongkong Strike

(Reuter Pacific Service)

Hongkong, May 19.—It is estimated that 400 steam-launches, including water-steamboats supplying shipping, and one hundred motor-boats, involving about 3,000 men, are affected by the strike besides stevedores and coal and cargo coolies who are prevented from work by it.

The Government, Police, Admiralty, Military and Customs launches are not affected.

No steamlaunches went alongside the Empire State when she arrived from Shanghai this morning. Rowing and sailing boats only are maintaining communications between the ships and the shore.

Naval ratings from His Majesty's ship, Durban, are manning the ferry service between Kowloon and Hongkong.

Hongkong, May 19.—Naval ratings from H. M. S. Foxglove are assisting to man the steamlaunches in the harbor. Lascars from one of the P. and O. Co.'s steamers have been impressed for services on board the company's passenger steamlaunch. British, American and Japanese officers and engineers on board merchant vessels are manning their respective firms' steamlaunches. The Japanese are inquiring the rate of premium for two months from life insurance companies before they board the steamlaunches.

British and Portuguese employees of mercantile firms have volunteered to replace the strikers.

A picket of four armed Indian constables and one British sergeant is posted at the Kowloon ferry pier.

Bandits And Pirates Fight; Eleven Dead

(Eastern News Agency)

Tsingtao, May 18.—Pirates having been making frequent appearances near Lingshantao at the mouth of the Bay of Kiaochow, water gendarmerie have hitherto been trying to guard that section. Yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, gun-reports were heard on Huangtao in the Bay and in consequence the gendarmerie hastened to the island to investigate.

They found eleven Chinese dead bodies. According to the residents of the island, the dead were pirates, who were suddenly attacked by a gang of some fifty bandits.

The bandits had fled from the island before the water-gendarmerie landed there.

The bandits, who are holding their own in the district of Tashushan, merely revenged themselves upon the pirates, who have infringed upon them by stealing their boats.

16 Cremated In Hospital Blaze

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, May 18.—A fire destroyed the ward for incurable patients of the Hospital of the Holy Ghost. Sixteen bodies have been recovered.

The fire at the Hospital of the Holy Ghost, which is the oldest and most famous in Rome, housing 800 patients, broke out at midnight in the laundry rooms but was unnoticed until the flames burst into the wards. The electric wires were severed, plunging the wards in darkness and necessitating the helpers using torches, thus adding to the terror of the inmates.

The majority of the deaths occurred in the chronic ward, where the patients dragged themselves from their beds and gathered in a corner. The floor collapsed, precipitating twenty of them below, followed by burning wood and bedding. After this, most of the patients were let down in sheets through the windows, owing to the precarious state of the stairs.

Twenty fire-engines succeeded in circumscribing the area of the conflagration, which finally was extinguished at ten o'clock this morning.

Most of the victims were between 50 and 70 years of age.

SAYS 'BUGS' Baer:

TOY BALLOONS ARE MERE TOYS

Epoch-Making Decision By The Board Of Sour Estimates Enrages Committee

BY "BUGS" BAER

Yes, Sir—

There doesn't seem to be any doubt that Gink Fowler was a bogus umpire and counterfeited decisions. He was so cross-eyed that he couldn't look through a stepladder. One eye looked towards the future while the other had a roving commission.

How comes it that he was picked for the most important job in a riot?

Explain those if you can. But I know that you can explain them better when you can't.

Yours for the last time,
CHARLIE GOLDMAN,
Ex-Bantam Champion.

Charlie, a man has to guess right once in a lifetime.

Gink Fowler was x-lamped. In fact, he was so cross-opticked that he was known as the man with the double x-look.

Folks trusted them about as far as you could hear an oyster laugh.

But he was honest as a bootlegger's work. As you flatheel through this vale of amendments you learn to loose your faith in labels.

Gink was unable to look through the rungs of a stepladder. He had curly astigmatism of the works. When it came to judging close plays he had an eye like the parlor lamp. Bright and shiny, but very wick. Very wick.

That's the reason why he went South to train. He consulted Dr. Kearney of Roughtown and the Doc whispered that Gink's eyes were so bad that amputation would be an improvement. The Doc sent Gink a bill for forty bills, which Gink acknowledged with intense sympathy.

Now that we are turning State's evidence we might as well toss ourselves upon the ill-timed mercy of the dozen assorted jurors.

Gink could not only pipe current happenings through a step-ladder, but he was also bug on races. He was like The Moose.

You never heard of The Moose? He was a racing bug. He figured the form sheets until he reduced his skull to a white blister.

The Moose parleyed. He parleyed Playfellow, a farmer's plow and an instalment sewing machine for sixty-five cents.

But the prize progressive insult of The Moose's career was when he parleyed Playfellow and the statue of Civic Virtue.

That aroused municipal indignation in Roughtown that threatened to distruct the State budget.

Finally Gink tossed a sponge at his celluloid collar, robbed his own trunk and escaped South to train. The truth will out. In fact, it will be always out.

Harbor Races Will Commence On June 1; New Officers Elected

One week from Sunday was selected at the annual general meeting of the Shanghai Yacht Club aboard the club-ship Foam last evening at the date for the annual cruise. June 1 was selected for the beginning of the harbor races. It was left to the committee whether the annual cruise should be run up or down the river, but there was a good sentiment in favor of the up-river course.

Commander E. T. Byrne in his address to a good representation of the club's membership reported a successful year for 1921, and a tentative outline of plans for the approaching season forecasted even a better yachting season than ever. The spirit of the whole meeting was one of optimism.

Officers for the year were elected as follows: Messrs. E. T. Byrne, Commodore, T. Mellows, Vice-Commodore, A. J. Stewart, rear-Commodore, A. J. Watson, Measurer. Committees: F. B. Walker, racing, C. E. Hall, house, A. L. Blechynden, house, F. C. Flack, house, J. E. R. Harris, Hon. Treasurer, H. E. Middleson, Hon. Secretary.

Shanghai And Japanese Tung Wen College Meet Today On Baseball Field

Local Players Will Have To Fight For Places On First Big Nine

The Shanghai American Baseball Club will have its first real tryout of the 1922 season this afternoon and tomorrow when it meets the team from the Tung Wen College. The Japanese Collegians promise the best opposition that has been offered this year against the Big Team.

It is expected that three pitchers will be used against the Japanese: Cadigan, the former New York State Leaguer; Wynn, the youngster who has shown very good class in the early games this year, and Scott, the old timer who has pitched and won many a game for Shanghai.

As for the rest of the lineup nothing definitely is known. Wood will likely work at first base, and Bills of course at short. Maloney must play at third. Second base is wide open. Holliday may work in, though it is possible that Jack Smith and Howland may change off with him. In the outfield Campbell, Hirsh, Hopkins, Wynn, Cadigton and Smith will fill out with Bruce Hirsh and Griffith catching. Many players who have classed themselves for the first string will have to hustle for their places this year, so that it is not possible yet to line up the local nine.

The Japanese students have a nicely trained team which will give the local nine a run for their win. The Tung Wen men have worked through a long practice season and many match games, so that they are set for anything that comes to them. They are certain this afternoon and tomorrow to keep the big nine on their toes.

The games commence at 3 p.m.

REPORT ON GERMAN RAILWAY ADMINISTRATION

Berlin (Special).—The administration of the German state railways continues to be a subject of keen discussion. The whole question has more than a domestic significance because the allied powers, in the interest of Germany's financial situation, which is so closely linked up with the question of reparations, have repeatedly summoned the German Government to take steps to wipe out the deficit on the railways. The justice of the demand of the entente is admitted by all sections of the German public, but opinions differ as to the best measures to be adopted to place the railways on a paying basis.

Hugo Stinnes and his friends profess to believe that a denationalisation of the railways would result in their better administration but, in view of the hostility of the officials, the workers and the general public to that proposal, it really has very little chance of being put into effect. The railway workers themselves, however, realise that steps of some sort or another must be taken to place the railways on a sound footing; moreover it is understood that, until the huge deficit is wiped out, there can be no hope of the budget balancing and until the budget balances the prospects of the Allies getting reparations are, one need hardly add, extremely remote.

A report on the whole question of the administration of the German railways which has been recently published by the Socialisation Commission—a body representing officials, workers and industrial organisations—is of peculiar interest as revealing the moderate German point of view on this vitally important question. The Socialisation Commission rejects with some vehemence the "retrograde" step of denationalisation advocated by Herr Stinnes, a fact which does not lessen the value of the constructive recommendations which its members make.

Very interesting are the reasons given for the deficit which now characterises the administration of the German railways. Before the war, states the commission in its report, the German state railways, especially the Prussian railways, were technically well-administered and sound economic property. During the war the rolling stock was in part destroyed and in part overused, while as a result of the peace treaty a substantial part of it had to be surrendered to the allied governments.

Moreover, during the war, while private industrial undertakings were able, thanks to increased charges, to make substantial profits and also to create reserve funds which enabled them to meet the changed conditions created by the war, the railways not only maintained the peace-time level of their charges but actually were called on to carry out work for the army at a financial loss.

Tariff increases were first made at the end of the war. The systematic introduction of the eight-hour day, the granting of holidays to employees, the necessity of finding work for the war mutilated and for railwaymen who had formerly lived in territories now separated from Germany led, the commission explain, to an increase in the number of workers employed of close on 35 percent, as compared with pre-war figures.

The expenditure on rolling stock and on other materials, it is further pointed out, has increased 16 times as compared with the pre-war expenditure, whereas the increase in wages represents an increase of not more than 11 times. The increase in railway passenger and goods traffic fares it is pointed out, has not kept pace with the depreciation of the German exchange and until recently— the new scale of charges corresponding fairly closely with the depreciation of the German currency—passenger fares had only been increased 10 times and goods charges 14 times as compared with pre-war charges.

In its report the commission examines exhaustively various proposals for restoring the chaotic finances of the railways to order. It admits that economies are necessary and that increased charges should follow more rapidly on currency depreciation than has hitherto been the case. It points out, however, that more radical reforms are necessary if the state railways are to be placed on a paying basis. The commission, for example, raises the question whether the railways should be taken out of the sphere of politics and, instead of being controlled as at present by a Minister of Transport who has a seat in the Cabinet, should be directed by a president whose position approximates rather to that of a civil servant.

The commission, it is interesting to note, rejected the proposal on the ground that the great importance of the German railways rendered it advisable that they should have a representative in the German Cabinet. The Socialisation Commission concludes its report by declaring that it is convinced the railways must remain the property of the state.

BOTTOMLEY TRIAL ON; 83,000 WANT MONEY RETURNED

Publisher Spent, Riotously, Crown Prosecutor Charges

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 18.—The trial of Mr. Bottomley opened at the Old Bailey today before Mr. Justice Salter. The court was crowded. The indictment contains twenty-four counts on charges of fraudulent conversion between May 1913 and June 1920.

Mr. Bottomley was allowed to sit at the solicitors table as he is conducting his own case. The Crown Prosecutor, Mr. Travers Humphreys, declared that the prosecution had traced to Mr. Bottomley's use from the Victory Bond Club Account £38,320 in cash, and, in addition, a £100,000 bond sold for £85,000, all of which had been used by Mr. Bottomley, none having been repaid.

Counsel alleged that the monies drawn were used for purposes like the upkeep of race horses, purchase of newspapers, champagne, John Bull shares, and the German submarine Deutchland, financing the makers of John Bull fountain pens and electioneering.

Counsel stated further, that 83,000 people had written reclaiming their money since affairs went into the hands of the official Receiver.

U. S. Corporations Given Fair Deal By French Laws

Paris, April 31.—That American corporations doing business in France are in many ways at an advantage over French companies is one of the interesting conclusions stated in "The Legal Status of American Corporations in France," a unique work just published in Paris by Charles Gerson Loeb, well-known international lawyer.

The work, which comprises nearly 600 pages, essays to prove also that legal language can be made simple, so that any corporation secretary or president, without being a lawyer, can understand its deductions. A feature of the book is the citation of 250 cases on which French legal decisions have been based.

"Not only are foreign enterprises at no disadvantage in France in the issue and negotiation of their securities," says Mr. Loeb, "but it has been necessary for the French legislator to use special vigilance for the purpose of preventing foreign concerns from having advantages over French enterprises.

"The principle of equivalence of taxation, between French and foreign business groupings, in regard to fiscal regulations, is a clear indication of the absence of all prejudice aainst foreign business organisations in the French system of company legislation."

In an exhaustive study that follows Mr. Loeb shows that a foreign corporation is, by the very nature of the principles of French law which are applicable to its status in France, at a natural advantage as compared to a French corporation, since it is not restricted by a number of rules which apply to French stocks and securities.

A chapter of utmost interest to all American firms intending doing business in France deals with the definition of nationality.

A corporation is not necessarily American because its charter has been granted in America, explains the author. If the corporation is formed for exploitation in France and if its chief office and center of activities is in France, it is, although its charter is granted in the United States or elsewhere, to be considered as a French corporation and therefore subject to restrictions governing French corporations.

If, on the other hand, an American corporation is formed to exploit a French business, but keeps its head office in America and does its business in France solely through an agent, then such a corporation, subject to certain reservations which are gone into at length, may be considered a foreign one.

The mere fact that a corporation exploits a business in France is not sufficient, explains Mr. Loeb, to make it a French corporation, for the same company might be also exploiting businesses in other countries, and no corporation can have more than one nationality.

A foreign corporation having solely an agent in France, but not issuing shares on the French Stock Exchange, is not necessarily to be considered subject to the rules governing foreign corporations doing business in France. If the corporation has an office in France, or owns and manages a business or factory, it is so subject.

The book deals with every phase of the legal side of American corporations doing business in France and explains clearly and explicitly their rights and limitations under the French law.

American corporation agents and lawyers in Paris unite in praise of the work, in the preface of which Rene Viviani, former Premier of France and one of the Pacific negotiators at Washington, states:

"I am happy to second, in a modest manner, by a short preface, which cannot equal your magnificent work, the effort which you have accomplished after lengthy researches which were no doubt facilitated by your experience; you have attained a strong and living synthesis from which legal truth emerges under many aspects. You have brought out clearly the liberalism of French legislation toward foreign corporations and have shown that under all circumstances France rises above the narrow furrows of egotism.

"I congratulate you on having further enriched the mass of legal knowledge handed down to you and express to you my most friendly sentiments."

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

May 19, 1922

Spot and forward bar silver were each up ½d. in London yesterday.

The New York price advanced to 73⅝ cents, and the London-New York cross rate is unchanged.

The official rates here today were unchanged from yesterday, and the market was erratic throughout the day. At one time business in Sterling was done as high as 3s. 8½d. for May delivery and 3s. 8⅝d. for June-July. Gold Dollars were done as high as 82½ for May and 32⅜ for June-July.

Late in the afternoon however, speculators became strong buyers and rates quickly eased off until at the close there were no sellers of Sterling at better than 3s. 8d. for May and 3s. 7⅞d. for June-July.

The best sellers of Gold Dollars at the close were offering 81¾ for May and 81½ for June-July. The market closed easy.

China banks bought silver heavily in London yesterday, and the market there is reported as closing firm.

The New York market is also quoted as firm.

Piece Goods:—There has been an active enquiry for all classes of goods for forward shipment and a fair amount has been booked. Demand for stocks has been small. Clearances have improved. The political situation so far as this center is concerned, seems brighter, in spite of the fighting in Honan which is shortly expected to terminate in favor of General Wu Pei-fu.

WEATHER

The depression will cross the sea of Japan. Rough weather between Korea and Nippon. Moderate breezes and local calms with mist or fog in places along our coasts. Hot and fine weather with local thunderstorms.

The Japanese Demands

THE Japanese Foreign Office statement makes some play with the assertion that amongst the objects it was hoped to achieve at the Dairen Conference was the non-enforcement of communistic principles in the Far Eastern Republic "as against the Japanese at least," and the adoption of the principle of the open door in Siberia. It will be noticed at once that by the very way in which the Japanese state these matters they support the frequent assertion of the Russian authorities that the Japanese were seeking special privileges in the Far Eastern Republic. The Japanese Delegation sought the non-enforcement of the communistic principle in Siberia "as against the Japanese at least;" that is to say, other nationalities might have to put up with the adoption of the communistic principle, but the Japanese should be exempt. This is the Japanese interpretation of the meaning of the "open door"—open to its fullest extent for Japan, but not so open for others.

As a matter of fact, however, there was never any need for the Japanese Delegation to say a word on this subject, for by the very Constitution of the Far Eastern Republic, adopted by the Constituent Assembly at Chita so long ago as April of last year, the communistic principle is excluded.

The Constitution expressly secures the rights of private property, so that any question of this kind raised by the Japanese Delegation was quite superfluous. As to the removal of restrictions on industrial activity as applying to foreigners, the Chita Government has more than removed restrictions, it has invited the investment of foreign capital, under due safeguards for the interests of the Republic as a whole, and there is foreign capital, including Japanese capital, waiting to be invested in the Far Eastern Republic as soon as general and not restrictive understandings shall have been reached between the governments concerned and the Chita authorities.

The demand for the prohibition of Bolshevik propaganda is mentioned as one of the things at which the Japanese Delegation aimed. The Far Eastern Republic so far as we know has no interest in the spread of any specific propaganda, and if it had, it is for the Japanese Government itself to take steps to prevent any propaganda it chooses in its dominions. There are in Japan and throughout the insular possessions of Japan press laws and other forms of machinery for stifling thought which are as easily applied to the propaganda of Bolshevism as they are to any other kind of propaganda, and the responsibility for such suppression is primarily, indeed almost solely, a Japanese Government responsibility.

If the Japanese Government fears that "political instability" would be induced in Japan by Bolshevik or any other kind of thought, it is for the Japanese Government to suppress such thought, if it can. All that Chita can do in the matter is to undertake not to send anybody to Japan to spread its cause. This is a good deal to ask of any Government, but undoubtedly the Chita Government would do its best to oblige, and as a matter of fact the two delegations quite understood each other on this point. It was not on these matters that the negotiations broke down, and the only object in mentioning them in the Japanese statement is to enumerate them as if they were points on which, after long argument, the Japanese authorities had given way. They are not to be accounted unto the Japanese Government as righteousness, however, but to be included amongst the things that almost go without saying.

On other points, however, there were differences, and on most of these the Chita Government gave way, where such giving way would not endanger the vital interests of the Far Eastern Republic. There still remained issues of very great importance. Thus, Japan sought to obtain the "abolition of the menacing military establishments of old Russia." Exactly what this means the Japanese statement discreetly leaves unexplained. On the face of it, taking into consideration the war-exhaustion of both Soviet Russia and the Far Eastern Republic, it is absurd to talk about the military menace of Russia to Japan. Both Soviet Russia and the Far Eastern Republic have domestic problems of their own that will require the complete concentration of all their energies for many, many years to come. Neither state is militaristic. Both, however, continue to defend themselves as best they can.

When it comes, however, to compliance with Japan's apparently innocuous request for the abolition of the "menacing military establishments of old Russia," and to asking what these establishments really are, even the long endurance of the Chita authorities breaks down. Put into plain words the Japanese Government asked the Chita Government to undertake to demolish the fortifications of Vladivostok, to renounce all idea of building a navy, to undertake not to increase the fleet of river patrol boats, and to allow the Japanese Government the right to establish its own system of river gunboat patrol on the Ussuri and Sungari rivers.

These last two demands are intolerable to any self-respecting state, and were of course rejected from the beginning. On the question of the fortifications of Vladivostok some sort of a compromise was in sight. It must be remembered that the fortifications at Vladivostok have not been destroyed in the course of war, but deliberately, of set purpose, though as yet not completely, by the Japanese Military Command, a piece of the most outrageous high-handedness to which the Allied intervention has given rise. Inasmuch as the Chita Government cannot afford to leave the main gateway of the country without some sort of defense, the Japanese demand on this point could not be entirely conceded, but it was met more than half way.

It will thus be seen that on the whole the Chita attitude was an extremely conciliatory one. The points on which the negotiations broke down, though they have been frequently set forth in the newspapers, do not yet seem to be quite clear to the public, and the recent Japanese statement has so garbled both the facts and their interpretation that it may serve some useful purpose to set them forth again, in something like their true light.

Chinese Burned Gas In 900 A. D.

Our pre-historic ancestors and the peoples who lived in early historic times regarded fire as a terrible god who was to be propitiated with sacrifices. Fire was useful in giving light and heat, but it had to be handled carefully or else disaster ensued. In ancient times wood was used principally for giving heat and also for producing light in the form of a torch.

There are recorded instances of the use of oil. Coal was introduced later and was used for heating purposes, but not for illumination in any large degree until the nineteenth century. Oil lamps and then candles were the principal sources of light before it was found industrially and economically possible to distil gas from coal. In 900 it is stated that the Chinese knew and used gas which was in reality petroleum vapor. This was distributed through wooden pipes for lighting purposes.

However, it was not till 1739 that gas was first made by distilling coal by James Clayton in investigating the causes of the occurrence of gas in coal mines. Murdock in 1805 applied gas on a large scale in lighting the streets of London. Simultaneous development took place in France, and later on in Germany. In the United States Baltimore was the first city to be illuminated with gas in 1806, Philadelphia in 1822 and New York in 1834, says the New York Sun.

There are several kinds of gas. The most generally used and the oldest in point of service is coal gas, which is made by heating coal in horizontal, vertical or inclined retorts in the absence of air. This kind of gas may be used directly for illuminating purposes without the need of enrichening with oil vapors. The manufacture of coal gas is extremely important not so much perhaps as a gas making process as for the byproducts that are recovered simultaneously with the gas. One very important byproduct is ammonia. Virtually all the ammonia used is made in this manner. The greatest part of the ammonia is absorbed in sulphuric acid to make sulphate of ammonia, which is an essential plant fertiliser, of which hundreds of thousands of tons are consumed each year.

Another important byproduct is coal tar, from which starting products, used in the manufacture of synthetic drugs, dyes and perfumes, are made. Sulphur, cyanogen are also recovered and converted into important commercial products. It is absolutely necessary to remove these substances from the gas, as otherwise in burning they would be changed into products which would not only have a bad effect on metallic ware in the household but would be deleterious to health as well.

After the distillation there is left behind in the gas retort a sort of coke, used for industrial and domestic purposes. The use of coke as a fuel in heating our homes should increase. In using coal we lose all the valuable byproducts that are recovered when the coal is first changed into gas. Furthermore, the coal is not burnt completely and there is great loss of heat. Coke will burn just as well as coal, provided the proper precautions are taken and the proper kind of grate is used.

Water gas is made by heating coal to incandescence in a closed chamber and then allowing steam to come in contact with it. The steam is decomposed and a mixture of gases is obtained which burns with a very hot flame. In order to produce illumination the gas must be mixed with the vapors obtained by dropping gas oil, which is recovered in the distillation of crude oil, on a hot plate. Since the introduction of the gas mantle the enrichening of water gas has become of lesser importance, as the mantle acts as the light producing body, the gas in burning merely heating it up to the point where it gives forth an intense light.

Another industrial gas is known as oil gas or Pintsch gas. This gas is made by converting mineral oil into a vapor. It has a high illuminating power, and one of its chief characteristics, which accounts for its use under certain special conditions, is the fact that it retains its high illuminative power when compressed, which is not the case with coal gas. In goneby days, before the advent of the improved form of storage battery, it was used exclusively in lighting railway cars, and it is still used for this purpose on certain railroads, steamboats and in buoys.

When the bicycle was in great vogue and the first automobiles were still new enough to be able to crawl around acetylene gas, which is made by adding water to carbide, was used as the illuminant in the lamps. The old acetylene tank on the automobile contained acetone, which has the power of dissolving and holding in solution until called upon to release in great quantities of acetylene gas. Many farmhouses use acetylene gas.

In certain localities gas issues forth from the ground from wells. This is natural gas, and such a large city as Pittsburgh is supplied largely by natural gas, pumped to it from the oil and gas wells. Recently certain natural gases have received serious attention, due to the fact that they contain appreciable quantities of helium, which may be used in inflating balloons and lighter than air craft and which is absolutely fire and explosion proof.

Debt Refunding Sure To Affect Stock Markets

Just what will be the ultimate effect upon the investment market of the coming refunding of the $11,000,000,000 debt of the Allies to the United States cannot be forecast at this time. In all the discussion of the subject there has been no definite plan of refunding mentioned. In the matter of magnitude, it is not only the greatest financial problem of its kind ever presented, but there is virtually no precedent that can be consulted for guidance. Fortunately, the United States has a banker and financier at the head of its Treasury Department, instead of a politician, and the successful solution of the problem will prove an enduring monument to the reputation of Mr. Mellon.

The belief prevails that the benefits flowing from the refunding of these foreign war debts will be greater for the debtor than the credited. In their present form these debts are virtually a call loan on which even interest is not being paid. A corporation always desires to keep its floating debt at a minimum, and to retain as much control as possible over its long-term obligations. It will be a relief for the foreign debtors to have their obligations so arranged that payment of principal may be spread over as long a period as possible. The arrangement would greatly facilitate the making up of annual budgets, and when the latter are properly balanced, the improvement in public credit will have a favorable bearing upon private credits and greatly help to revive commercial activities.

When the foreign loans are exchanged for a bond in permanent form, with terms of maturity and interest rates definitely fixed, there is a belief in some quarters that these foreign bonds received by the United States (which will become a sort of treasury asset) will be offered for subscription to the American investor. At the present time such investments would not make any appeal without an indorsement of principal and interest by the United States Government, says G. E. Masten and Co. of Pittsburgh. It is also true, however, that the refunding and the offering of the bonds to private investors would not increase the supply of bonds to be absorbed by the market. There is virtually a Liberty bond outstanding for every dollar of money advanced by the United States Government to the Allies. On the whole, we do not attach much importance to the proposed refunding operations, as far as immediate effects upon investment conditions at home are concerned.

The provisions of the refunding measure raised by the State are not so broad as requested by the Secretary of the Treasury, but are fairly comprehensive. The commission will be composed of the members appointed by the President, with the Secretary of the Treasury as chairman, and it is given virtually three years in which to prepare and execute its plans.

Two limits are imposed upon the commission in their negotiations for the foreign debt settlement. One limits to 25 years the term of any bonds which may be issued in refunding, and the other fixes 4¼ percent as the minimum interest rate to be collected. On the other hand, the commission is empowered to refund, convert or extend time of payment of principal and interest.

The Week's Market Report

In their weekly report on the Shanghai piece-goods trade, Messrs. Noel, Murray and Company write as follows:

Cotton.—A rise of 170 points has taken place in New York this week and the last quotations were 21.60 cents for Spot cotton, 20.35 for July, 20.17 for October, 20.08 for December, 19.94 for January and 19.70 cents for March, 1923. In Liverpool yesterday the range of prices was 12d. for Spot Good Middlings, 11.74d. for July and 11.53d. for October. Bengals were last quoted at 8.45d. and Egyptians were up to 18d. In Bombay F. G. Bengals are Rs. 354, Fine Oomras Rs. 416 and F. G. Broach Rs. 489. An early estimate of the acreage planted in the U. S. is 34,005,005 acres, an average increase of 5.2%, which appears to be below expectations, which placed the acreage increase at from 10 to 15 percent. Weather conditions towards the end of April were favorable. Farmers appeared to be basing their ideas of a sale price at around 18 cents and an active market in the Summer is looked for.

Home Market.—Attempts at buying disclose a stronger market in Manchester and for Greys and Whites nearly a shilling a piece more has been demanded, the higher exchange ruling enabling this advance to be paid. Fairly early delivery is promised.

Local Market.—This has taken on a more active appearance, but the offers that are submitted show the usual spirit of the dealers who expect to get the full benefit of the rise that has taken place in exchange, and snip off five mace or even a tael a piece from the unpaying levels of a few weeks ago and give the importer very little chance to begin to repair the losses suffered during the past umpteen months. This, on a rising producing market is not encouraging, but the offers go forward nevertheless and there are perhaps a few who have made due provision and can look to the higher cost of goods with pleasurable anticipation of future profits. During the last few days a good business has been booked for plain local mill cloths and the quantity disposed of runs well into five figures of bales. Large quantities of European Gray and White Shirtings have been declared as imported this week, 71,031 and 173,300 pieces respectively.

Financial.—A further depletion in the silver pile is noticeable; the shrinkage in the stock of dollars is no doubt accounted for by the withdrawal of some lakhs for cocoon buying. Sycee and Bars stand at Tls. 25,137,000 and Dollars at 35,850,000 of which totals the native banks hold Tls. 6,520,000 and $21,770,000.

Yarn.—800 bales only have been sold by the native mills and 4,500 bales have been purchased by the bundle merchants. Of Indian sorts 325 bales are reported sold.

Auctions.—The regular sales were begun once more on Tuesday and altogether 52,418 pieces were sold. Some lots fetched last prices and even better but due allowance had evidently been made for the higher exchange now ruling as compared with the beginning of April when the last auctions were held. The best feature was the White Shirtings which kept their place well, in spite of biggish offerings. Turkey Reds and Velvets were very weak, Lawns in request and firm. Black Italians and Venetians were lower on the whole, but strengthened a little in some cases at the close.

ROSENFELD REPORT

In their weekly report on the Shanghai cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows:

China Cotton. During the past week the cotton market has been uneventful, but with a rather firm undertone in a general way, and at the close with a gradual stiffening of prices in sympathy with the sharp advance in Mid-Americans due to unsatisfactory weather conditions and floods that have been reported from the United States Cotton Belt.

We think that for the present time there is comparatively little risk in buying cotton conservatively on any slight decline, such purchases should prove moderately profitable anyhow, while they might show handsome results if there should be any further setbacks to the crop and continued strength in the world markets.

As to the future outlook, we are of the opinion that the course of prices will be governed by the future outlook of the world markets, and chiefly by the progress of the crops. The critical months of July and August are still ahead of us, and the trade's attention will be centered not only on weather conditions, but also on possible damage from Insects, Bollweevil, etc.

Yarn: Fluctuations during the past week have been unimportant, and although during the early part of the week the tendency was somewhat easier, the undertone of the market at the close was steady. Interior stocks are generally light and an increased demand is looked forward to. We continue to advise purchases of yarn.

SPUNT AND COMPANY

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their cotton market report:

China Cotton.—There has been practically no change in the position of our market during the past week to that prevailing in the previous period, in that while very little business was consummated, prices on the whole continued steady, showing at the close no other tendency than that of steadiness so long as no perceptible movements in yarn take place to engender some demand for the raw material, which, for the time being, remains, to all intents and purposes, an abandoned article. It would, no doubt, appear that the expected resumption of warfare in the country has influenced in no small degree the situation in which our market finds itself and it may take some time before confidence is sufficiently restored to bring about a revival in the trade.

In the meantime we are in receipt of telegraphic information from the U. S. A. that about 6,000,000 acres of the cotton area is under water and that further considerable rises in the price of cotton are expected. And while the season for the new crop is still in its early stages, nevertheless, such an incident in no way tends to encourage expectations of a bumper crop or a crop fully sufficient to meet the requirements of the world's spindleage.

Having the above in view the deducible indications are that any provision made at this time, at favorable rates, for future requirements, may prove a wise step that will ultimately create its own reward. Tone of the market, Steady.

FILET LACE

Messrs. Industrial Export (China) Company write as follows in their report on filet lace:

The filet market is still very firm with fairly large enquiries for 6 and 9 hole as well as Rose and Leaf.

Prices are firm ranging from 1.7½ to 1.8½ per hole. The market is likely to go higher should the present demand continue.

There is very little doing in Irish laces and prices are unchanged ranging from Mex. $1.95 to 2.00 per ounce.

HAIRNET

The Chefoo head office of Yannoulatos Bros (China), under date 13th inst., reports as follows:

The depression in the hairnet market continues. The demand from U. S. for both single and double nets has decreased to a very great extent and many of the exporters' workrooms are closing down.

There is a small but regular demand in the European markets for Single nets resulting to very small orders.

The market for Single nets is steady while for doubles quite easy in spite of the limited stocks.

PONGEE SILK

The Chefoo head office of The China Merchants Pongee Association under date of 13th inst., reports as follows:

The Silk market is active with American enquiring for prompt shipments with small business resulting. Australia continues buying, while the European markets are very quiet.

Market closed quiet and easy.

Raw silk market is steady with very small stocks. Sales reported during the week at Chefoo Tls. 680 and Ch. Tls. 700 for the best grades.

Remarks. Important: Silks Ref. No. 2 and 3 are slightly heavier in weight than the 14 momme machine made Japanese Pongee, but far superior in quality. Mention of this is made to enable buyers abroad to compare prices:—

Note: Prices are First Corts for fair average quality, "First Pick".

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.
Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained, irrespective of the skill of the user, and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.
Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and where distemper and oil paint have proved prone to shell or flake off, it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.
1 Imperial Gallon covers about 130 square yards one coat.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
Don't Poison Baby.
FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children unless you or your physician know of what it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.
The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria
Physicians Recommend Castoria.
"I have frequently prescribed Castoria for common ailments of children with good results." W. A. CRANDALL, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.
"I find your Castoria is very beneficial in the treatment of children's ailments." F. DAVIS, M. D., Chicago, Ill.
"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and, aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home." WM. J. MCCRANN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.
"I object to what are called patent medicines, where the maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine." N. B. SIZER, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

S. V. C. Corps Orders

Routine Orders by Colonel R. Marr-Johnson, C.M.G., D.S.O. Commandant S.V.C.

No. 54. Municipal Gazette. The following extract from the Municipal Gazette dated May 19, 1922, is published for information:

"Machine Gun Company.—Company Sergeant-Major A. W. Hayward to be 2nd Lieutenant, Sergeant J. Snodgrass to be 2nd Lieutenant, Driver W. J. Hawkings to be 2nd Lieutenant (Transport Officer), Driver R. B. Roach to be 2nd Lieutenant (Transport Officer).

"Chinese Company.—Captain G. Grayrigge is transferred to Corps Headquarters as adviser on Chinese Company matters.

Lieut. T. A. Zee to be Captain."

No. 55. Promotions to Warrant Rank. Sergt. L. Lienard, Light Horse, to be Squadron Sergeant Major (Warrant Officer, Class II) vice Andrews resigned April 1o. 1922.

Sergt. W. R. Mowll, Machine Gun Company, to be Company Sergeant Major (Warrant Officer Class II) vice Hayward promoted.

No. 56. Rifle Range Safety Precautions. The recent regrettable accident on the Rifle Range is mainly attritutable to neglect of the essential principle that, except on active service, no fire arm, whether known to be loaded or not, should ever be held in such a position that if it goes off bodily harm may be caused to any individual, and its corollary, even more important, that no portion of the mechanism should be touched with the fire arm in such a position. I expect every individual in the Corps to carry out this principle rigidly on all occasions, whether on duty or not.

A secondary cause of the accident was non compliance with the order given by the officer in charge at the firing point to unload at the conclusion of the practice. To impress the importance of this unloading, I am issuing an addition to the Standing orders for the use of the Rifle Range, a copy of which will be sent to every member of the Corps, as well as displayed on the Range.

No. 57. Inspection of Portuguese and Japanese Companies. Ref. order No. 50, the inspection of these Companies on Tuesday 23 will take place at the Rifle Range and not on the Polo Ground.

No. 58. Officers Leave. 2nd Lieut. F. A. Leitao, Portuguese Company, from June 1, 1922 to August 31, 1922.

Captain G. Grayrigge, Headquarters, from May 20, 1922 to September 30, 1922.

Instructions for Empire Day Celebration Parade, May 24, 1922. (Reference Routine Order No. 51 of May 16, 1922).

1.—The Commissioner of Police is sending the usual contingent of Sikh Police to attend the parade.

2.—There will be no British naval contingent.

3.—The S.V.C. will be under the command of Major Pilcher, the whole parade being under the command of the commandant, S.V.C.

4.—The troops will be drawn up as usual with the exception that, in the absence of a naval contingent, the Light Horse will occupy the north side of the rectangle where the naval contingent usually takes its stand.

5.—At 11:55 a.m. all troops will be standing at ease in their positions, with bayonets fixed, or swords drawn as the case may be.

6.—At noon, the General Officer Commanding H. B. M's Forces in China will be received with the General Salute. All troops will come to "attention," "slope arms" and "present arms" by direct word of command of the Commandant of the Parade, the time for the officers' salute being taken from him. The band will play the first six bars of the National Anthem, at the conclusion of which all troops will come to the "slope" by direct word of command of the Commandant of the Parade, officers returning to the "carry" with him.

7.—The G.O.C. will then inspect the troops on parade. Units not being inspected will "order arms" and "stand at ease" by order of Unit Commanders. The latter will not fall out to accompany the G.O.C. during his inspection. The band will play selections during the inspection.

8.—At the conclusion of the inspection, all units will be standing at ease. The Commandant of the Parade will then call the Parade to "attention" and "slope arms" followed by the order. "The Parade will march past in column of units." Major Pilcher will at once order units of the S.V.C. other than the Light Horse to "form fours right, quick march" and "left wheel," and the Sikh Police will conform. As soon as the Commandant of the Parade and Major Pilcher are in position in front of the Light Horse, the O. C. Light Horse will give the order for his unit to advance. Other units will follow at 25 paces distance. "Eyes right" will be given by each Unit Commander, and officers will salute when the Unit Commander arrives at 10 paces from the saluting base. The order "eyes front" will not be given by Unit Commanders until the ranks are 10 yards beyond the saluting base. The band will not change its position and will commence to play a quick march on the O. C. Light Horse giving "quick march."

9.—Near to the south end of the saluting base, a red flag will be placed, round which each unit will pass in column of fours keeping this flag on its left, and thus move round the south and east sides of the parade ground to the position originally occupied, halt and stand at ease.

10.—On "Three cheers for His Most Gracious Majesty the King Emperor" being ordered by the Commandant of the Parade, rifles will be passed to the left hand. The time for the cheers will be given by the Commandant of the Parade and all will raise their headdress with the right hand at each cheer.

11.—All troops will then come to "attention" and "slope arms" by direct word of command of the Commandant of the Parade, and the Band will play the first verse of the National Anthem.

12.—Troops will then move off the ground in column of route from the right under the orders of their own commanders and be dismissed by the latter as required.

PROMPT SERVICE DAY and NIGHT

LIFE was going along very smoothly for L. M. Fine, of Chicago, and his married life was bliss and roses until one day he was confronted with the photograph of his wife on one of his office calendars. That was not enough. He saw the picture again and again smiling at him from soap wrappers, catsup bottles, cigar boxes, street car cards and the like until, well, his language could only be translated into dashes.

WOULD-BE LOOTER, HIT WITH OPIUM PIPE, BACKS OUT

Gen. Chao Changes His Mind After Commission's Visit

(China Press Correspondence)

Kaifeng, May 13.—It took strong argument, including sundry raps with an opium pipe upon the skull of General Chao Chieh to save Kaifeng from attack, capture and the looting, ravishing and other calamities that befall the vanquished, and foreigners are loud in praise of General Pai, head of the peace commission sent by the Civil Governor to obtain a truce.

The mission included several foreigners, so that what took place is reported as from the lips of eyewitnesses. The foreigners were Messrs. Napier Smith of the Canadian Mission, Henderson M. Harris of the Southern Baptists and W. W. Cline of the Y. M. C. A. They were received on board the private car of General Chao Chieh who came at the head of not less than 30,000 troops.

All feared that Kaifeng was doomed, but the commission bucked up enough courage to enter the car, the foreigners being shoved well in front by all but General Pai who stood his ground manfully.

"Why do you want to loot Kaifeng," was Pai's opening gun.

"Wu Pei-fu is dead and we are taking command," was the astounding reply, since no word had come of the death of Wu.

"You are crazy," declared Pai, "Wu Pei-fu has rolled up Chang Tso-lin and his men like a piece of dirty matting."

"Where do you get that stuff," was the answer in Chinese slang for which, fortunately, there is no exact foreign equivalent.

Then the war of words waxed fast and furious, with Chao Chieh, waving his opium pipe to punctuate the abuse he was heaping on General Pai, the foreigners and all and sundry in that part of Honan.

Pai finally became nettled, not exactly angry, but he lost a molety of his poise. Grabbing the opium-pipe from the nerveless grasp of Chao Chieh, he hit him a resounding whack on the head.

"You will plunder Kaifeng, will you, you old reprobate," he exclaimed. "You dope-fiend with a star-filled brain."

Again he hit him, this time a powerful blow, and the erstwhile arrogant invader began to fear he had met more than his match.

"But I must advance. My men demand it," was his craven explanation. Whang! came the pipe again, some of its jade inlaying springing loose from the force of the blow.

"Your ragamuffins demand plunder," said General Pai. "Why don't you give them the pay you have stolen all these years," and again the descent of the pipe marked the end of the question.

His guards had withdrawn to a respectful distance, and an opium pipe well wielded as this one was, being no mean weapon, Chao Chieh thought it better to capitulate.

"Well, since you are so insistent about it," he managed to articulate, "I won't attack Kaifeng until tomorrow. Now give me that pipe."

This was sufficient for the committee which withdrew, patting General Pai on the back.

Next day, General Feng Yu-hsiang arrived with his troops and it was all over but the shouting—shouting for General Pai—which still continues as there is no doubt in the minds of the foreigners that the opium pipe, wielded by such a man as Pai, is better than the sword especially if applied to the scone of the invader.
